

Proclamation 11-06
READING TORNADO RELIEF DAY
July 23, 2011

Whereas, the City of Reading in the State of Kansas experienced a catastrophic natural disaster when struck by a tornado on May 21, 2011; and

Whereas, while all communities can plan for disaster, no community can adequately respond alone when disaster hits; and

Whereas, it is the duty of all communities to come together and support one another in times of crisis and disaster; and

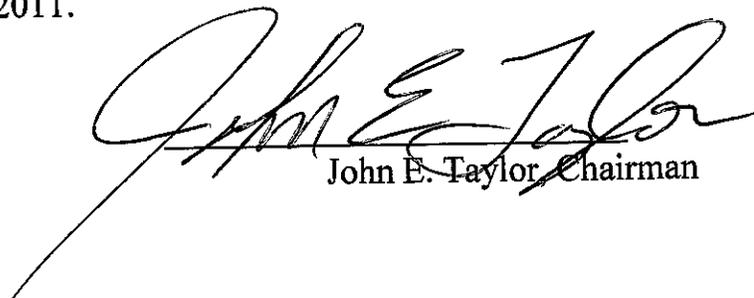

Whereas, citizens of Franklin County have organized to contribute time and resources to aid in the rebuilding of the community of Reading, and do this as a compassionate outreach to our neighbors and fellow citizens of Kansas.

Now, therefore, the Board of Franklin County Commissioners, Kansas, does hereby recognize Saturday, July 23, 2011 as:

READING TORNADO RELIEF DAY

in Franklin County, Kansas and encourages all residence of Franklin County to support our neighbors in their time of need.

Signed this 6th day of July 2011.

John E. Taylor, Chairman
